INFORMATION

GRANITE WORKTOPS

Each piece of stone or marble is hand cut, finished and polished to bring out its natural beauty.

Due to the nature of this product, each countertop is unique and there will be variations from piece to piece. Imperfections, such as blemishes, marks and pits are part of the character of natural stone and are not a sign of a lesser quality product. Immense pressure has formed this material over millions of years and there will be metallic deposits of quartz, feldspar, silica and mica which may show in the surface of the worktop.

Each countertop is carefully sealed and waterproofed for bathroom use. You must reseal your granite countertop regularly.. At least on a twice yearly basis, or when water seems to be soaking into the surface.

Maintenance

- For regular cleaning and maintenance, you should clean your granite countertop at least once a week with soapy water.
- Clean up liquid spills promptly to avoid any surface damage. Some liquids, such as alcohol and medication have high acid contents so can damage granite surface if left for any length of time.
- Examples of products that must be cleaned up promptly include:
 - Nail Polish Remover
 - Toilet Cleaner
 - Shampoo
 - Drain Cleaner
 - Perfume & Cologne
 - Toothpaste
 - Shaving cream or foam
 - Hair colouring products
- Check the chemical content of your cleaning products to make sure they do not contain abrasives or lacquer removing materials.
- Use coasters under drinking glasses to avoid leaving unwanted surface marks.
- DO NOT stand on granite worktops or place very heavy items on top. Place protective pads under weighty objects such as ceramics or appliances.
- DO NOT place hot items on your granite surface.
